

New Yorkers For A Day of Two

The Turk in Turkey Is Becoming a Monogamist on Account of the High Cost of Keeping Up a Harem.

By Roger Batchelder.

The Turk is becoming a monogamist, according to William Whittall, an Englishman who lives in Constantinople, and who is staying at the Majestic a few days before returning to that city. The Turk is not adopting monogamy voluntarily, Mr. Whittall hastens to add—he is not heeding the teachings of the missionaries or the enlightenment of the western world. No—it's because he's broke since the war, while all the time the high cost of running a harem keeps getting higher and higher.

The Allied military occupation of Turkey and the various welfare and relief organizations now operating there have brought many women of foreign countries to Constantinople, and seeing the freedom enjoyed by their more fortunate sisters, Turkish women are getting restless and making demands not at all in accord with the position assigned them by their lords and masters. The Turkish flapper of to-day has developed a taste for European clothes, Paris hats and high-heeled slippers, and now the poor Turk who can't support her in the style to which she is becoming accustomed gets the Turkish raspberry.

"Women in Turkey have gained greater freedom since the war than they have ever known before," said Mr. Whittall, "but it is doubtful if they can keep it when the country is restored to normal. A woman there is merely a chattel, without opportunity for education or organization. She has no rights, and can be divorced at the will of her husband. Women appear more in public now than formerly, they are no longer compelled to cover their faces with veils, and in a few other respects they have gained minor advantages."

"Their little freedom is rather the result of opportunity than of a liberal minded policy by the Government. The Nationalist Party, led by Mustafa Kemal, controls Turkey and is now busy fighting the Greeks. The men are away, and the women are making the most of it. But there is little likelihood of any permanent advance for women or for progress toward emancipation while the Turks govern themselves."

SLIPPER SLAMMERS AND GATHERING.

Walter Atkinson of Albany, who has been passing a few weeks at St. Petersburg, Fla., said at the Biltmore yesterday that the town was all excited about the fourth annual horse-shoe pitching tournament which will take place during the week of the 20th of this month.

"Then," reports Mr. Atkinson, "the stable golf championship of the United States will be at stake. America's best slipper slammers are already gathering for the winter's principal sporting event. Among the enthusiastic sportsmen will be J. Todd Flowers, President of the National League of Horse-shoe Pitchers, and William Motz of Arkon, who is said to toss a mean hoof-slipper."

OUR IOWA DEPARTMENT.

"The State University Hospital at Iowa City is the pride of the State," according to Dr. W. L. Dean, head of the College of Medicine at Iowa State University, who is at the Astor today. "It was established eight years ago after the State Board of Education had passed a law in the State Legislature which provides for the care of indigent adults and children. That law is said by educators to be the finest health law in existence, and people are now coming from all over the country to study the institution and its system. Minnesota and Wisconsin have both recently established hospitals patterned after ours, and Kansas has already appropriated money for one in that State."

"Under the existing law, any doctor, teacher, nurse, or even a private individual may file information before the Judge of any court regarding any ill, crippled or sick child in the State who may need care. The court must then send a doctor to examine the child and decide whether an operation or special treatment is needed. An investigation next is made to determine whether the family can afford to pay for such treatment, and if it cannot, a State nurse is sent at the State's expense."

"One of the features of the hospital is a school for these crippled children, with all necessary appliances. We have also one of the two finest research laboratories on nutrition in the country. The surgeons in

BREAKS HIS LEG AGAIN RUNNING FROM A COP

Fracture and Not Bullet Wounds Down Burglar Suspect.

A horse and wagon stood in front of Joseph Mandino's cheese and olive oil establishment at No. 181 Mulberry Street at 4 o'clock this morning when Policeman Roach of the Elizabeth Street Station came along. Roach saw that the bars of a window had been sawed and that two men were inside. In climbing through the window Roach made a joke and the men ran to the street.

One leaped for the fire escape, climbed to the roof and got away. The other ran. Roach fired several shots at each man.

The one in the street fell. He was not shot, but had slipped and broken a leg that had been broken a short time ago. He described himself as Temiamo Marco, twenty-five, No. 119 Elizabeth Street. He was taken to Bellevue 4 prisoner, charged with burglary.

MELLON NOT BARRED FROM CABINET POST

Lawyers Say Stock Ownership Is Not "Engaging in Business."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Basing his views on legal advice, Secretary Mellon considers that he has not contravened the law prohibiting the Secretary of the Treasury from engaging in commerce or business, it was declared to-day by high Administration officials in commenting on the attack on the Secretary made yesterday by Senator Watson, Democrat, of Georgia.

The law was called to Mr. Mellon's attention, officials said, when he was considering the invitation of President Harding to join the Cabinet, and a number of legal authorities were of the opinion that the mere ownership of stock in corporations did not constitute engaging, directly or indirectly, "in commerce or business."
